

Town Council Passes By-Laws, Building Permits

Improvements In Sanitary Arrangements to Be Made in Business Area by October 1.

On Friday evening the council held a lengthy discussion on various matters, and for a time proceedings were held up by members becoming interested in the broadcasting of the Joe Louis and Max Schmeling prize fight.

A by-law was passed authorizing closing part of the lane at the rear of property owned by J. S. D'Appollonia, on Second street.

A by-law was also passed making it compulsory for all property owners in the business area to install inside lavatory accommodation by October 1, and the abolition of all outside toilets, considered a menace to health in this area.

Building permits were under discussion for a considerable length of time. Relief cases and applications for old-age pensions were also considered.

Various accounts were passed, and the meeting was adjourned at 10.30 p.m. Present were Mayor Pattinson, Councillors Allan Chapman, Antrobus, Planter, Borrowes and Hayson.

Miss Helen Fawcay was a Calgary visitor over the weekend.

Mrs. A. S. Partington was visiting in Lethbridge during the week.

Improvements at International mine include the removal of coke ovens to make room for additional railway trackage. A steam shovel has been at work clearing away the debris of the demolished ovens. Changes are also being made in the electric starting motors for the tippie machinery, which will be housed in a building entirely apart from the tippie.

Chisellers On Local Business

Peddlers of printing and advertising and other goods from other places solicit business from local merchants, but pay no taxes to the municipality as do local business houses. One such was so cheap that he even camped in the auto park to save paying a hotel bill. He represented a well-known house, too.

A TIMELY REMINDER

It is urged that people visiting the cemetery make it a rule to close the main gate, as it has been noticed that some leave in cars and do not trouble to shut the gates. The only remedy is to keep the main gate locked, as cows get in and desecrate the graves and destroy the work of those who cultivate garden plots around the graves.

CANADIAN LEGION HEARS CARNIVAL REPORT AT GENERAL MEETING

Legion members congratulated W. S. Purvis, carnival manager, on his financial report on the carnival held recently, whereby he showed a surplus over all expenses of $654.94. He gave a detailed report on receipts from the various booths, some of which showed an operating loss, which cut down the receipts somewhat lower than anticipated by the committee in charge of finance. A vote of thanks was given Mr. Purvis, and a motion passed that a suitable presentation be made in recognition of his good work as manager of the carnival.

President Lonsbury and Mr. Purvis thanked the members for their co-operation in working for the carnival, and the latter stated that he assumed the responsibility solely for the purpose of doing his part to help in establishment of a club.

Following adoption of the report, discussion ensued on the disposal of the fund, and it was finally decided that four trustees be appointed so that the building fund be maintained intact till such time as a definite building plan was adopted. The trustees appointed by the chair were W. S. Purvis, W. Martland, R. F. Barnes and H. T. Halliwell.

The Ladies' Auxiliary is reported earned a surplus of $166 from the sale of refreshments at the carnival, making the total profit approximately $881.

Several members were in favor of holding a sports day in July, and a committee of seven was appointed by the meeting to bring in a report as early as possible. It is the intention to raise sufficient to give prizes in baseball, football and other sports. There has not been a sports day held since 1933, and the members will solicit the support of business men for cash donations for prizes. They hope to put on a day which will draw a big crowd from the towns of the Crows' Nest Pass.

Following the meeting, a social evening was enjoyed by the Legionaires and the Auxiliary members.

Death Claims Well-Known Young Man

Passed On in University Hospital Monday Following Operation

Ian Neave, 26 years, resident here for five years, died in University hospital, Edmonton, on Monday, after undergoing an operation for removal of a growth which was causing a pressure on the brain.

General regret was expressed at his passing, as he was a young man of pleasing personality, who for several years had been handicapped by reason of poor health. Two years ago he paid a visit to his mother in Glasgow, Scotland. He first came to Canada to enter the service of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, being in Medicine Hat and Coleman branches. He resigned from the bank, and for a time engaged in work as a commission salesman.

Just recently he had entered into a partnership with John Milley to open a lunch counter here, and preparations were going ahead for opening the place at the time of his death. He left here last week for Edmonton to go into hospital, having been advised several weeks ago that an operation would be necessary. For two weeks recently he was quite ill, and was kindly taken care of by Mrs. Stewart Milley.

Miss K. Milley left on Monday morning on receipt of word that his condition was critical, but he passed away before she reached there. Her brothers, John, George and Gordon, left by car early on Tuesday morning for Edmonton, to complete arrangements for the body being forwarded to Coleman for burial. The funeral service will be held Friday at 3 p.m.

Flags on stores and schools on Tuesday in observance of the birthday of King Edward VIII. were quite noticeable. Steve Janostak was the first to have a flag out on his store on Main street, and this set the example for others to quickly follow.

Developing Hudson's Bay Route

Recent announcements of efforts that are being made to interest British capital and Federal provincial governments to aid in extending the sphere of influence and service of Churchill as the Canadian port of the Hudson's Bay route by construction of rail extensions to give direct connection between the Bay and the larger centres in the western provinces as well as the Pacific Coast are stimulating public interest in the possibilities of further development of this comparatively new trade channel.

The past few months has seen the birth of proposals that Winnipeg should be given direct connection with Churchill by construction of a road due north from that city which would cut off approximately one-third of the distance between the Bay and Winnipeg via the Pas; that a line should be built from Big River, Saskatchewan through the Lake Athabasca country, giving Prince Albert direct connection with Hudson's Bay and bringing Saskatoon closer; that a link should be made between that line and the Alberta Great Waterways Railway giving Edmonton and Calgary connection with Churchill; and also, via Edmonton, a line from Churchill to Vancouver, using the existing C.N.R. main line from the Alberta capital to the B.C. coast-port and finally, a suggestion of a more direct line between the Pacific Coast and Churchill through the Peace River country.

It is not likely that all these lines will be built at once, but so many advantages can be claimed for them that it is reasonable to believe extensions will be made from time to time, as the need for them becomes more apparent, and that in course of time, perhaps not so far distant, a more or less direct northern route from Churchill to the Pacific Coast will be an actuality. Just how long that will be is a matter of pure conjecture at this stage.

Some of the advantages claimed for these extensions are that they would make possible the development of the rich mineral lands in the north of the three prairie provinces with greater rapidity, that the shortened distances between Hudson's Bay and the larger western centres would result in decreased freight charges on incoming and outgoing commodities and that a shorter overland route would tend to promote more traffic between Europe and the Orient. It is also contended that the construction of a direct north route between the Pacific and the Bay would have distinct militaristic value in the event of Canada becoming embroiled with any aggressive Oriental power, since Vancouver would no longer be the sole practical outlet on the western seaboard.

While the military aspect has not been overlooked, the promoters of this new northern network of communications are more particularly interested in the value it would have in developing the trade and commerce of the country, its potential effect on the free exchange of commodities between Western Canada and European countries and particularly Great Britain and its possibility in promoting more local trade.

With the prospective development of the mineralized areas of this vast north country becoming more immediate the last-mentioned objective is one which has particular interest to the people of the western provinces and should be of particular interest to the farmers who under existing conditions, are finding an urgent need of developing more and greater local markets for increasing varieties of farm products.

When the vastness of this great northland is reviewed and the undoubted great value of its resources is considered, the possibility of developing local markets for prairie farm products almost stretches the imagination. Beyond the needs of the country almost everything required for sustenance of its workers will have to be shipped in from natural and economically practical source of supply for such commodities is the contiguous agricultural belt.

Then, too, direct railways into the northland will lure tourists from the United States into a country which to them, as well as to the majority of Canadians, is a land of mystery with unparalleled attractions for the lover of the great outdoors and the sportsman. They, too, will have to be fed on what the country affords, and the tourist trade will be a strictly cash business. Moreover, tourists who can take excursions into such distant territory will not cavil at the few cents additional price they would have to pay, provided they can get the service they demand.

Although its first objective, the construction of a line to Hudson's Bay and of a port and terminal facilities at the northern seaboard has been achieved, the On-to-the-Bay Association does not consider its work completed and it is pleading to note that the question is continuing its efforts to make the venture's success in efforts to secure lower freight and marine insurance rates and to foster business via the comparatively new route.

When it is remembered that the Association only came into existence in 1923 its efforts have borne fruit of surprising magnitude in a very short space of time.

Professor Believes Electricity Could Be Produced From Antarctic Gales

Electricity made by Antarctic gales may soon be used to illuminate every home in the world, in the opinion of Prof. Frank Debenham, who was with Captain Scott on his ill-fated expedition and is now director of the Scott Polar Research Institute at Cambridge, England.

Prof. Debenham is confident that the present uninhabited south polar regions, nearly 5,000,000 square miles in extent, will one day house the great power-generating stations of the world.

"All round the continent," he said, "terrible winds blow from the high plateau, and one day these may be harnessed to wind-driven generators. But we should have to wait until we have radio-transmission of power before this is practicable. The source of energy could be connected with the rest of the world."

No human or animal life exists in the Antarctic because, even if they could survive the rigors of the climate, there is no plant life.

To counteract this, however, the professor said building of subterranean cities far below the ice-bound desolation and deadly blizzards of the Antarctic would not be fantastic.

Scientists now visualize the building of great subterranean caverns wherein cities can be erected, with complete scientific civilization, artificial sunlight, and air-conditioning which would put the climate under the control of man.

New Source Of Heat

Blanket Of Ozone Above Earth Has Effect On Weather

A new source of hot weather which, strangely enough, seems to lie in the icy cold stratosphere was reported to the American Association for the Advancement of Science at Rochester, N.Y.

The heat source is a "blanket" of ozone which appears to reflect back to earth the heat which the earth's surface radiates upwards. Ozone is a rare form of oxygen. How it acts as a one-way blanket which lets the sun's heat in but stops the earth's heat from escaping was described by Brian O'Brien of the University of Rochester.

His heat theory, which is new, is one result of the stratosphere flights made by the National Geographic Society and the United States army air corps. He proposed it to the American Meteorological Society at the opening session of a three-day meeting of the science association.

The stratosphere flights carried instruments which showed quite definitely that above North America a blanket of ozone lies with its centre 15 to 20 miles above the earth. The existence of this blanket has been recognized by scientists for about 10 years. Evidence it has an effect upon the weather is new.

The ozone blanket, Prof. O'Brien explained, grows thicker or thinner as the sun's rays increase or diminish. It is a protection during the frosty periods when the sun gives off increased radiation.

Discover New Drug

Announcement Made By U.S. Department Of Agriculture

Outstanding success during the past year in use of a new drug for the treatment of herpes, chronic ulcers and other non-healing wounds was announced from the United States department of agriculture.

Dr. William Robinson, scientist who brought the chemical known as allantoin into wide use after discovering its curative properties, said remarkable results have been obtained by physicians and surgeons throughout the country.

Speaking cautiously lest the drug might be regarded in the class of alleged cure-alls, Dr. Robinson said results thus far have led the members of the medical profession who have used it to extend the application of allantoin to the treatment of other external wounds which have failed to heal under other treatment. These have included infections of the mouth, diabetic ulcers, and the bone disease known as osteomyelitis.

Inscriptions To Be Engraved On Canadian Memorial At Vimy

Four inscriptions will be engraved on the Canadian war memorial at Vimy. Two will be in both English and French, one in French and one in Latin.

The main inscription on the westerly faces of the pylons will read:

"To the valour of their countrymen in the Great War and in memory of their sixty thousand dead, this monument is raised by the people of Canada."

"A la vaillance des ses fils pendant la Grande Guerre, et en mémoire de ses soixante mille morts, le peuple Canadien a élevé ce monument."

On the inner face of the second front wall will appear:

"The Canadian corps, on April 9, 1917, with four divisions in line on a front of four miles, attacked and captured this ridge."

"L'armée Canadienne attaquant avec quatre divisions sur un front de six kilomètres en possession de cette crête d'assaut le 9 Avril, 1917."

As a tribute to French and British troops who suffered so heavily on the ground these words will be engraved on the front face of one pylon near the figure of sacrifice:

"Freres d'armes Français et Britanniques le Canada se Souvient!"

On the tomb in front of the memorial a Latin inscription will appear:

"In memoriam sexaginta milium Canadensium qui Anno Domini MCMXVII-MCMXVIII. In armis ultra mare vitam pro patria ultra dediderunt."

Rendered into English this is: "In memory of 60,000 Canadians who in the years 1914-1918 serving in arms overseas of their own free will gave up their lives for their country."

Conducting Forest Survey

Saskatchewan Plans To Protect Timber Against Excessive Cutting

A survey of cut over forests in Saskatchewan will be conducted this summer by the Dominion forestry service, in co-operation with the provincial department of natural resources.

The province is anxious to get full information in order to determine the rate of growth of timber as a means of protecting the forests against excessive cutting.

Early in the year, Hon. W. F. Kerr, member of natural resources, wrote to the federal government urging that this work be done in the province this year. In pressing for the service, he spoke of the necessity of getting the province's lumbering operation on a soundly yielded basis that is, to limit the cutting operations to the natural growth each year, thus preserving for all time the forest resources of the province.

In reply to this request, the federal government has agreed to conduct the survey, and the work will be undertaken this summer.

Great Road-Building Project

Tunnel Under Bering Straits Would Link Alaska And Siberia

Back in prehistoric times, it is believed, the Eastern and Western hemispheres were so closely linked that primitive man found it easy to direct his migratory movements from one to the other. If there was not complete union, there was at least a physical condition approximating it.

Now there is talk of restoring that condition by means of a highway that shall reach across the Arctic wastes of the Far North, to Yukon, Alaska, and thence to Siberia by means of a tunnel under Bering Straits. This plan is properly referred to as "the greatest road building project of modern times."

How much this is an engineering dream and how much of it is based on the hope of profitable returns is not quite clear, although the statement is made that it is being given consideration by financial interests in both the East and the West. The vast mineral and oil wealth of the northland are some of the inducements that make the scheme attractive, it is said. Recent discoveries have revealed that there is a wealth of pitchblende, gold, silver, copper and other mineral deposits in the sub-Arctic regions. The estimated cost is placed at half a billion.

Certainly a project of this nature appeals strongly to the imagination because of adventure, profit and pleasure. It points to the future possibility of motor tours that will truly encompass the world—Buffalo Courier-Express.

A Can Of Fruit

The standard net weight of a can of fruit, vegetables or any foodstuffs should be stamped plainly on the outside of the container, the National Council of Women decided. "Middle sizes" were misleading, the delegates claimed and grocers would like a standardizing of the "in-between" can themselves. The resolution was moved on behalf of the Vancouver local council.

Continued Search For By-Products Benefits Farm And Factory

Presence of undesirable mineral elements in straw has thwarted efforts of science to use it in paper-making and although the handicap may be overcome shortly by scientists, vastness of Canada's wood-pulp reserve will prevent widespread use of straw for paper-making, Dr. Harold Hibbert of McGill University stated in an interview at Edmonton.

Professor of industrial and cellulose chemistry for the pulp and paper research branch at McGill, Dr. Hibbert is leading the scientific movement to find new industrial uses for Canadian farm products. He is an authority on "chemurgy," a coalition of chemical and agricultural sciences.

Our greatest foe to date has been throwing of important new light on composition of plants," Dr. Hibbert explained in speaking of chemurgy. "We are continually searching for new by-products from farm produce and when we find one our discovery is of mutual benefit to farmer and manufacturer."

Only War Could Stop Italy In Ethiopia Says Premier Baldwin

Coltene, Scotland. — War alone could stop Italy from achieving its desired ends in Ethiopia, Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin warned in a speech here, defending his government's attitude toward sanctions. Sanctions were primarily designed to prevent war, he asserted, declaring: "Collective security will never work unless the nations who take part in it are prepared simultaneously to threaten with military sanctions, and, if necessary, to fight."

The prime minister, who spoke to a mass meeting of Conservatives, continued:

"Whatever the perils of the future may be, and whatever may be the ambitions locked in the breasts of dictators, they know as well as we know what another war in Europe would mean. It would be the end of civilization."

Stressing the inevitability of war if a "realistic" policy were not adopted, Mr. Baldwin said he did "not know a single country in Europe prepared for that."

Expressing hope some measure of disarmament may yet be achieved, he said: "We must see that if we ever have to fight again our people have the best that there is to fight with, both in quality and quantity, and that no risks are taken beyond risks which might fairly be assumed by a gallant farseeing nation."

"I have nothing to apologize for," he said in reference to his government's attitude on the sanctions question. "We think it right to drop them because we do not believe their continuance, even if all nations desire it, could serve any useful or effective purpose."

"Sanctions are put on for stopping war. They were not devised for purely punitive purposes. In my view, there is only one way of altering the course of events that is to go so far taken place and that is to go to war."

The forthcoming meetings of the League of Nations council and assembly will find Great Britain committed to an attempt to see whether reality could be made of what has not proved a reality so far," he added.

Baldwin indirectly scored the opposition forces which continue to urge maintenance and possible extension of sanctions. "Let us at all events, in working for collective security, know what we mean and understand what it involves. If war should come by collective security, every nation is in it up to the neck."

He emphasized his own determination to avoid leading Britain into a conflict, and warned: "If the fire of war is ever lighted again on the continent, no man can tell where it will stop burning, and it is not a risk I for one am going to take for my country as long as I have any control in the government.

Coming to the defence of Anthony Eden, Baldwin described the foreign secretary as a "man of great ideals and courage." Eden threw over nothing, he said.

The government had called upon the British public to support sanctions, he admitted, but predicted it would endorse their subsequent change of policy.

Lower Interest Rates

Premier Bracken Says Government Pledged To Use Efforts To This End

Winnipeg—Premier John Bracken's Manitoba government is pledged to every "reasonable effort" in bringing about lower interest rates on borrowings by the province, municipalities and individuals.

In his first public utterance since announcement that provincial elections will be held July 27, Mr. Bracken declared lower interest rates would be sought but he emphasized threat of either debt repudiation or arbitrary action was implied.

In an address to the Manitoba Municipal Secretary-treasurers' Association, the premier gave some indication of policies the Liberal-Progressive party would present to the electors next month.

He outlined a six-fold unemployment relief policy, called upon the Dominion to assume a larger share of the cost of social services and referred to problems of agricultural, municipal and drought relief.

Big Oil Gusher

Deepest Producing Well In British Empire In Turner Valley

Calgary.—With a roar that could be heard for several miles, a new oil well, the Turner Valley Royalties, declared to be the deepest producing well in the British Empire, came into production recently.

Following the crash of a column of mud and water from the depths more than a mile below the surface, crude oil flowed out in heavy volume. The well is 6,824 feet deep.

Clarence E. Snyder, veteran driller, estimated the flow ran from 700 to 1,500 barrels daily. A flow-controlling device was installed immediately.

Library Book Returned

London.—A Vancouver man returned a note explaining he had read the seven years and was impelled by "absolute honesty" to return it. Library officials have replied, pointing out the fine of two cents a day for overdue books now amounts to $50.

Supplementary Estimates

Largest Single Amounts Are For Public Works

Ottawa.—Hon. Charles Dunning, finance minister, tabled supplementary estimates for the year ending March 31, 1937, totalling $11,265,909, of which the largest single amounts were for public works, and loans and advances to the national harbours boards and harbor commissions.

There was a substantial addition to the appropriations for national defence and aviation.

A total of $2,835,700 additional is to be spent on public works, mainly for buildings in which all the provinces share except British Columbia.

One of the largest items in the public building appropriations is $250,000 for a supreme court building in Ottawa, a long-mooted project.

Militia services get an additional $1,052,426, and the air force, coupled with civil government air operations and civil aviation, $1,088,115.

Agriculture will get an additional $1,193,000 of which the largest item is $750,000 for administration of the health of animals branch, administration of Contagious Diseases Act, and Canned Foods Act. For marketing of agricultural products an additional $300,000 will be appropriated.

For losses sustained by the British government under the 3,000 British family immigration agreement of 1934, the estimates provide for $74,866.

An echo of the 1935 riots in Regina arising from the activities of relief camp strikers, appeared in the estimates in the form of an appropriation of $21,576 for legal fees arising from the inquiry commission which recently completed its work in the Saskatchewan capital.

Many Took Up Insurance

Lloyd's Offered Odds Against Change In Coronation Plans

London.—Lloyd's Insurance Corporation offered odds of 10 to 1 against any change in plans for the coronation of the King next year.

Brokers from the corporation offered these odds to souvenir manufacturers against the chance the King will marry prior to the coronation ceremony or the event will be postponed.

They did a land-office business insuring pottery and other knick-knack makers who are beginning to turn out thousands of coronation souvenirs.

If His Majesty married, for example, the mugs, plaques and other trinkets specially made for the coronation would require two portraits instead of one.

New Canadian Airport

Petawawa, Ont.—A new airport was opened at this Canadian military camp northwest of Ottawa after official ceremonies honoring pioneer Canadian flyers. The field was named the "Silver Dart" after the aeroplane used by J. A. D. McCurdy in 1909 at Baddeck, N.S., when he accomplished the first flight in a heavier-than-air machine in the British Empire.

QUEBEC PREMIER

When Premier Taschereau of Quebec resigned after announcing that a new Provincial election would take place in August, the Hon. Joseph Adolphe Godbout (above) was named Prime Minister of the Province. Mr. Godbout was Minister of Agriculture in the Taschereau Administration.

Hopper Infestation

Mid-Western United States Threatened With Worst Plague Since 1931. Des Moines, Ia.—The worst grasshopper infestation since the "plague" of 1931 and '32 threatens mid-western United States crops, an agricultural survey disclosed.

With newly-hatched "hoppers" already swarming over grain fields in sections of Iowa, Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma, Missouri and Montana, spotted infestations were reported also in parts of Illinois, Wisconsin and Colorado.

Recalling the devastation to corn and small grain by the insect hordes four years ago, H. C. Asberg, assistant Iowa secretary of agriculture, asked that state's congressmen to join other mid-western legislators in demanding a $2,500,000 federal appropriation.

Asberg proposed the funds be used over a two-year period to replace farmers with poison bran mash. It is spread over the fields to kill the pests.

In other infested areas the threat was equally serious. O. S. Bare, University of Nebraska entomologist, predicted Nebraska was in for a disastrous season unless control measures were quickly adopted. He added that "hoppers were reported 'by the millions' over the state."

Fragment Of Plane

To Be Presented To Germany By Canada's Olympic Team

Toronto.—A fragment of the plane in which Baron Manfred Von Richthofen, German flying ace, was brought down in France by a Canadian, Roy Brown, will be presented to Germany this summer by Canada's Olympic team. Captain W. R. "Wop" May, Edmonton flyer, whose life was saved when Brown killed the German ace, is donating the fragment. Richthofen was chasing May's crippled ship when Brown came to May's assistance.

Railway Measure Is Adopted By The Senate On Division

Ottawa.—After Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, Conservative leader and several of his associates in the senate had declared their intention of voting against return of the directorate system of Canadian National Railways administration, the bill for that purpose was adopted without a recorded vote.

"On division," Senator Meighen declared when Mr. Speaker put the motion for third reading. The Conservative leader had launched a bitter attack against the bill and declared the action contemplated would put the railways in a position to serve "the political necessities" of the government. He quoted Railway Minister C. D. Howe, who sponsored the bill in the House of Commons, as having declared the trustee board "has within its power to destroy my political career."

Sensors R. B. Horner (Saskatchewan), Wm. A. Griesbach (Edmonton), Arthur Sauve (Rigaud), and Donald Sutherland (Oxford), all Conservative appointees, opposed the bill and the latter declared he would vote against it "if I never get a chance to vote again in this chamber." Fears of senate abolition would not deter him from defeating a government measure, he said.

Sensor Raoul Dandurand, government leader, was the only speaker to support the measure. He declared the board of trustees, which is to be replaced by a board of seven directors, had failed to accomplish the task for which it had been appointed. The task was to restore equilibrium to the Canadian National system through co-operation with the Canadian Pacific.

Effect of the legislation will be to remove the three trustees and to replace them by a board of seven directors, leaving the operation of the road in the hands of President S. J. Hungerford as at present. The trustees are former Judge C. P. Fullerton, F. K. Morrow and J. E. Labelle. Mr. Fullerton was asked to resign as soon as the government took office last October but refused to do so.

Sensor Dandurand told the senate Mr. Morrow and Mr. Labelle were removed at once. The board was appointed in 1933 and took office January 1, 1934.

Sensor Meighen declared the government had no mandate to change the board of trustees for the directorate provided in the new legislation. He asserted the government was taking the Duff report on railways, tearing it up and tossing it into the waste basket.

"Why this change?" queried the Conservative leader in the course of an hour's address in which he traced the history of the government-owned system down to the appointment of the board of trustees.

The prime minister made his statement a few hours after Anthony Eden, Britain's foreign minister, told the United Kingdom parliament the British government would lead the movement to lift sanctions. He made it plain, however, the Canadian government came to its decision independent of the British viewpoint, several days ago.

At the same time, Mr. King said, Canada would continue to support the League of Nations in its efforts to promote collective security and peace. It would be folly to disorganize it.

Canada would not work alone through the league to promote good will and understanding, Mr. King said. When circumstances permitted, legations would be extended to foreign and empire countries.

It would be dangerous and futile to continue sanctions against Italy now that Ethiopia has been conquered and Haile Selassie put to flight, the prime minister said. It was the government's view there was no alternative to raising the economic bars against trade with Italy.

Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, Conservative leader, said he could not entirely agree with the government's attitude although he admitted his mind was not made up entirely.

There was a different viewpoint to sanctions which had been expressed by Premier Hertzog of South Africa, Mr. Bennett said, and so far as he could find, no lack of logic in it. It was that by lifting sanctions "we undoubtedly put a direct premium on the violation of international agreements. There is no escape from that."

Abolition of sanctions, continued Mr. Bennett, meant that Italy, after subduing Ethiopia with bombs, poison gas and weight of arms, was to escape punishment for breaking her word to the world.

It might be wise for Canada, a new country, a young democracy, to tell the world it did not sanction the breaking of solemn treaties.

"Why," asked Mr. Bennett, referring to relaxation of sanctions, "should we take that action simply because someone else does?" It might be wise for Canada to stand as an example of rectitude to the rest of the world.

pointment of the board of trustees and asserted that body had proven its value.

"I scarcely know personally the new minister of railways. He has never been in parliament until after the election. I know his reputation as an engineer is good. I have not the least reason to doubt that as a businessman his reputation is good. I do not approach him predisposed adversely."

"But within a week he decides the Duff-Flavelle-Ashford report. Afterward after many months of study and inquiry by men of business rank and responsibility is to be thrown into the waste-basket and forgotten. He finds that men, into the results of whose work he has never inquired, have to be thrown on to the ash-heap and abandoned."

The minister of railways found the railway system must be returned to direct government control instead of parliamentary control provided in the 1933 legislation; "That all the vulnerability to politics and pressure is to be restored."

"May I ask for what purpose was it so essential that the government be in control?" asked Senator Meighen. "I do not have to answer, Mr. Howe has answered. Mr. Howe said: 'I am not a bit afraid of this bogey of government interference with the railways. What I am afraid of is the road's interference with the government.'"

Stir Up Trouble

Outside Money Blamed For Trouble

London.—The House of Commons received official indication that outside money is involved in the present disturbances between Arabs and Jews in Palestine.

The Marquess of Hartington, parliamentary under-secretary for dominions, speaking for William A. Ormsby-Gore, colonial secretary, said:

"The secretary of state thinks there is little doubt that before and during the disturbances, money from outside sources was distributed in Palestine. He did not say 'on the exact source.'"

A question by a member as to whether there was evidence the money came from Rome went unanswered.

To Await New Session

Ottawa.—Amendments to the British North America Act to provide a method by which Canada may amend its own constitution will have to await another session of parliament, Hon. Ernest Lapointe, minister of justice, told the House of Commons in answer to a question from J. S. Woodsword, C.C.F. leader.

Royal Commission To Probe Abuses In Quebec Province

Quebec.—A royal commission will conduct a complete inquiry into the previous administration of Quebec province, Premier Adolphe Godbout said in his first address as prime minister.

The commission will be "absolutely independent of the government," he declared, and people whom the inquiry revealed as being responsible for any abuses would be punished regardless of their position and station.

Such recommendation as might be made by the commission following the inquiry would be followed to the letter by the new government, the premier said, adding he would introduce the new government "in a few days."

The only instructions the commission would receive would be to bring to light all that has been done by the Quebec administration, regardless of whether these revelations affect or involve persons attached to the Liberal party.

The premier promised his government would implement reforms which would assure farmers "an honest return for their toil," assure the working man a "reasonable salary" and "restore the economic equilibrium of the province."

The new government felt rich and poor alike were entitled to take advantage of the rights of property. "Industry which in this crisis needs the help and the protection of the state will have from us that help and protection," declared Premier Godbout.

Speaking in French, the premier promised his government would take steps necessary to put an end to direct relief and establish a plan under which work would be exchanged for reasonable wages.

The coming election campaign will be a three-party fight.

Paul Gouin, leader of the insurgent group, L'Action Libérale Nationale, announced his party would enter the campaign free from the agreement it made with the Conservative party in the election of last November when they united for the express purpose of defeating the Liberal regime of Louis A. Taschereau, in power for the last 16 years.

Tapture of the agreement between the two parties had been brought about by "a series of acts" since last election day, Nov. 25, said the 38-year-old rebel Liberal.

"L'Action Libérale Nationale," he said, "faithful to its principles, therefore today pits itself against the two old Tory and 'trustard' parties, that of the Hon. Mr. Godbout and Mr. Duplessis."

BRITAIN'S NEW COLONIAL SECRETARY TAKES OFFICE.

The Right Hon. G. A. Ormsby-Gore, formerly First Commissioner of Works in the British Government, leaving the Colonial Office after being appointed Secretary of State for the Colonies in succession to J. H. Thomas, who resigned.

Canada Supports Movement To Lift Sanctions Against Italy

Ottawa.—Canada lined up with the United Kingdom in supporting the movement to lift economic sanctions against Italy. Premier Mackenzie King announced in the House of Commons Canadian delegates to the approaching meeting of the league would be instructed to press for sanction lifting.

The prime minister made his statement a few hours after Anthony Eden, Britain's foreign minister, told the United Kingdom parliament the British government would lead the movement to lift sanctions. He made it plain, however, the Canadian government came to its decision independent of the British viewpoint, several days ago.

At the same time, Mr. King said, Canada would continue to support the League of Nations in its efforts to promote collective security and peace. It would be folly to disorganize it.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

AS THE TIME FOR THE departure of the Vimy Pilgrimage approaches, many a soldier's thoughts will turn to the battlefields of 1914-18. It will be the greatest peacetime pilgrimage of Canadians ever witnessed, over 6,000 going in five trans-Atlantic liners to be present at the unveiling of the Canadian war memorial on Vimy Ridge by King Edward VIII.

TO THE Canadian Legion is due credit for organizing the pilgrimage, which will be accorded by the governments of Great Britain and France the welcome which is its due.
Less than 18 years after the close of the war, many who fought in it will again cross the ocean, to take part in the dedication service of a magnificent memorial to fallen comrades.

THOUGH the years rapidly pass, time does not dim the glorious memory of those who died. The fruit of victory may be as barren as dead fruit, as the late Lord Allen.
by expressed it shortly before his death, but it does not diminish the pride and loving memory of those who counted not the cost even to life itself. Canadian soldiers valiantly took their part with their imperial brethren and those of the British Dominions, and no better tribute to their memory could be paid than by the memorable Vimy Pilgrimage.

GAZING over the town from the hill in the dusk of a beautiful summer evening, the thought arose of those who had laid the foundations of this community. Unfortunately reliable historical record of a definite nature is difficult to obtain, for though Coleman boasted a weekly newspaper over 25 years ago, no files are in existence, only those from 1921 to the present day. It has for some time been our secret ambition to publish a suitable edition reviewing the progress and the general history of Coleman in its struggles from a hamlet to village and subsequently to an incorporated town. It will entail a lot of delving into over 30 years of town life, and if any readers have copies of old newspapers or records of any kind, containing interesting information, the loan of same would be of great help.

A MAN'S HOME is his castle. Noticing several homes are being made more attractive in appearance by the building of stone walls around them, the writer was reminded of this saying. Owning a home makes for contentment and civic pride, and the pride of ownership is evidenced in many ways; by gardens, by keeping the house in good repair and painting it, and by the building of a castle wall, which is a great improvement over a wooden and wire fence, very difficult to keep in a truly upright position. Once you have a stone wall, it is there for "keeps" and if you are so handy as to be able to build it yourself, there is pleasure to be obtained in surveying your handiwork. There is joy in achievement, especially in building and improving a home.

NEXT MONTH the annual convention of weekly newspaper publishers of Canada will be held in Winnipeg.
From Vancouver Island to Newfoundland there will gather those whose mission it is to try and serve their communities through their newspapers. The custom is to hold the convention in a different province every year, so that publishers may gain contact with the nine provinces. It has always been the aim of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association to improve the status and usefulness of its newspapers, and it is also worthy of note that worthwhile weeklies are closely scanned by the dailies for current opinions in rural districts. The weekly newspaper is far closer to the people than the daily, and if properly conducted is invariably a welcome visitor in every home. What more striking testimony is there than the fact that many who having lived here for a number of years, and wishing to keep informed of their old friends and neighbors, will have the paper mailed to them for years after they move away. They regard it with as much appreciation as a letter from home.

HE WHO is so egotistical as to fancy himself a big toad in his small home town pond, finds that he doesn't create even a ripple in a larger pond.

A Quotation worth remembering: "If men who did things talked half as much as men who know how things ought to be done, life would not be worth living."—Edward VIII.

A REQUEST has been made to the town council to provide a more adequate water supply at the Protestant cemetery, at present served by a seepage hole. The Catholic cemetery, has a water pipe line provided at their own expense. Enquiry at the town secretary's office elicited the information that burial plots are given free, therefore it would seem that the best way to secure a water supply would be to find if a pipe-line could be laid and the cost shared among those having plots, which would only be a nominal amount for each.

WIT AND HUMOR

"Archimedes," read the schoolboy, aloud, "leaped from his bath shouting 'Eureka! Eureka!'"
"One moment," interrupted the teacher. "What is the meaning of 'Eureka?'"
"Eureka" means 'I have found it,'" said the boy.
"Very well! What had Archimedes found?"
"The soap, sir."

Him: "Well, I suppose you're plenty angry because I came home with this black eye last night."
Her (sweetly): "Not at all, dear.
You may not remember, but when you came home you didn't have that black eye."

"You look all-in today, Bill. What's the trouble?"
Bill: "Well, I didn't get home until after daylight, and I was just undressing, when my wife woke up and said: 'Aren't you getting up pretty early, Jim?' In order to save an argument, I put on my clothes and came down to the office."

A HOT TRAIL

Lady (at party): "Where's that pretty maid who was passing out cocktails a while ago?"
Hostess: "Are you looking for a drink?"
Lady: "No, I'm looking for my husband!"

UNREASONABLE

Mother: "Now, children, don't quarrel! What's the matter?"
Junior: "We're playing shipwreck, and Susie won't go in the bathroom and drown herself."

A contractor of the old school took his daughter on a trip to New York.
They went to one of those plays that made father blush a bit.

"I'm sorry, Dorothy, that I brought you here," he said. "This is hardly a play for a girl of your age."
"Oh, that's all right, Dad. It'll probably liven up a bit before the end."

FIRST... THE TRUTH

THE same man is a hero to his friend and a ranter to his enemy. Opinions differ. Opinions will always differ. But an intelligent opinion is possible only when all the facts are known. The truth—the facts—the news—these are the essentials. You must have them to think clearly, to decide intelligently on any question. And you need not be without them. News of every event of importance, every issue, every angle, is brought to you by the press—not just one version, but the whole truth as it can be drawn from every available source.

A GOOD newspaper's own expressions of opinion are confined to its editorial space. The integrity of its news columns is inviolate. They present the discoverable facts, uncolored by politics or allegiance to any group or faction. Your inalienable right to form your own opinion is unprejudiced.

A FREE and untrammelled press—a liberty that is denied in many other countries—that is what the independent daily and weekly newspapers of Alberta offer you. They give a voice to current opinion that is heard in high places. They are a perpetual safeguard to the freedom and welfare of the people.

To Assist Unemployed

National Council of Women Urges That More Attention Be Given To Question

Maximum working hours in industry and commerce should be so distributed as to allow at least one and a half days weekly rest, and that these intervals should be continuous wherever possible—the so-called English weekend—the National Council of Women urged.

The 43rd annual convention also felt that in view of the widespread unemployment among "intellectual workers," national health and unemployment insurance schemes should be widened in their scope.

The two points were contained in a resolution advocated by the international council of women, passed by the convention at Halifax.

Increasing difficulty was experienced by women over the age of 30 years, in retaining or obtaining employment, another point of the same resolution said. It urged the establishment of loan funds and training schemes to enable such women to qualify themselves for entry into new occupations.

Immediate measures for the aid of the unemployed youth, just out of high school, and the older unemployed women were advocated by the convenor of the standing committee on trades and professions. In her report, Miss Eva T. McDevor, of Winnipeg, suggested courses in which would be taught the rudiments of ethnology, history of civilization, hygiene, personal and social duties, and national and international civics, so helpful in that direction.

As convenor of the committee on natural resources and industry, Mrs. George Bell, of Regina, reported a moderate but steady improvement in Canadian industry.

She drew her conclusion from the reports presented her by councils in 19 cities and towns from Halifax to Vancouver.

Pioneer Bird Bander Active

Jack Miner Bands Over Twelve Hundred Canada Geese This Spring

It is a well-known fact that Jack Miner is a pioneer in tagging birds on this continent. He tagged his first duck in August, 1906, at Kingsville, Ontario. That duck was reported killed in January, 1910, in South Carolina.

He had to invent nets and contrivances to catch the various species he has tagged. That, in itself, was a task that demanded no little ingenuity and entailed no small expense.

To date he has tagged over fifteen thousand Canada geese. This past spring he made seven or eight catches, which totalled over twelve hundred in number.

These tags furnish invaluable information to the scientists, naturalists and game protective departments concerned in the study of the life, habits and migration routes of our birds. The authentic data so secured is used not only in the universities of the continent, but also by federal, state and provincial governments in both Canada and the United States. Such records demonstrate clearly where the largest percentages of migratory wildfowl are killed.

Each tag put on bears Jack Miner's name, post office address and the date, while in one corner is also stamped a selected verse of Scripture, this being Jack Miner's unique way of passing along God's word to the people who shoot this coveted game bird.

Each of the twelve hundred tags put on this spring carried such a Scripture message, so that Jack Miner calls them his "winged missionaries."

Wheat Control Abandoned

Spain Is First To Part With European Policy On Protecting Wheat Growers

The first important breach in Europe's policy of protecting domestic wheat producers by elaborate governmental methods can be attributed to Spain. The government of that country has given up policies providing for fixed prices, controlled stocks and segregation of surplus stocks.

For twenty years the Spanish government has exercised control over the wheat industry in Spain and of late years these measures have had an infinite variety. The objective has been to increase returns to producers while maintaining low prices of bread. The only regulation now in force compels mills to keep on hand one month's supply of flour.

The government now has on hand about 14,000,000 bushels out of a surplus of about 22,000,000 bushels which was purchased to prevent disruption of the market last year. The government claims that the farmers have extended wheat sowing to unsuitable land, thus bringing about the possibility of a continued surplus.

Wheat is a basic factor in the wealth of Spain, representing about 25 per cent. of the total value of all agricultural production.—The Budget.

Figures Showed Improvement Over Corresponding Period Last Year

A considerable improvement was shown in the number of commercial failures in the three months ended March 31, compared with the corresponding period of 1935, according to the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. Assignments in the three months totalled 338, with liabilities of $4,483,439, and assets of $3,079,735, compared with 361 assignments, with liabilities of $5,658,988 and assets at $2,594,352 in the corresponding period of last year.

Sailing To Southern Seas

Romantic Story Behind Proposed Trip Of Young Adventurers

"Voyage to South Seas in sail. Schooner leaving August for about a year. Six young men wanted to crew; each contribute $500 toward expenses."

Behind this advertisement in a London newspaper is a story that would have inspired the romantic imagination of Joseph Conrad.

It began 15 years ago when two children met at school. The other day they were married. Now they plan to sail away with six other adventurers and two friends for 30,000 miles. Like all true adventurers they are going into the unknown, but with the knowledge that they cannot go so far without finding more interesting life than by staying in one town.

The bridegroom when interviewed, said: "I am negotiating for the purchase of a 150-ton schooner. This will be paid for out of my own pocket. I shall be master. Lars Faersch, a Finn, with whom I have served in sail, will come as first mate."

"My wife's brother, George, will be a member of the crew. My wife will supervise the cooking and stores and generally do the purchaser's work, as well as taking a turn at the wheel and other ship's duties. She is filled with quiet enthusiasm. She has complete faith in the future."

"We now require six young men between the ages of 18 and 30, the bridegroom added. "They must be good mixers and prepared to pay $500 each towards the cost in return for food, accommodation and the experience."

Old Roman Coins Found

Workmen In Dorchester, England, Come Across Twenty Thousand

Special police watch was placed on the Dorset Museum, where 20,000 Roman coins discovered by excavating workmen in Dorchester, England, were taken.

Dug out by men working on the foundations of a chain store, the hoard is now found to have been one of the biggest ever discovered in Great Britain.

Police took the coins from the spot where they were found, and some have been sent to the British Museum for experts to decide if they are treasure trove. If they are, the customary inquest will have to be held on them.

So great was the crowd round the scene of the discovery that extra hoardings were erected.

Behind these the workmen were excavating carefully, and bit by bit the plan of a villa once inhabited by a wealthy resident of Roman Dorchester was unfolded.

The coins were in a beautiful bronze ever nearly 18 in. high, and a bowl more than a foot across. Part of a wooden box contained further stores of wealth.

New Method Discovered

Muscles When Tensed Are Released Quickly For Short Sports

Discovery of a method to "pump up" tired muscles, which for short spurts rests them more quickly than complete relaxation, has been announced in Rochester, N.Y.

When tired muscles are deliberately tensed the action appears to inject or squeeze into them a revitalizing chemical naturally produced in the body. There are three of these chemicals. The one believed responsible is adrenalin, the adrenal gland product which man manufactures liberally when he fights.

The time for spread of the re-energizing chemical is cut to split seconds by the "pumping up" method. The discovery reveals a hitherto scientifically unrecognized quick energy reservoir.

The exhibit shows frog muscles "loaded," that is under alternate pull and release, which fatigues them. Complete relaxation overcomes the fatigue in about ten seconds. But tensing a muscle rapidly restores its energy in about half a second.

A Cornell gymnast reported similar results in bar chinning work. After 20 successive chinings a short relaxation with arms outstretched left him with scarcely strength to resume chinning. But tensing for an equal period restored his muscle so that he went on easily and repeated the chinings more than 20 times.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarified to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You get constipated. Harmful poisons go into the body, and you feel none. Such and the world would think.

A mere bowel movement doesn't always get all the waste. You need something that works on the liver as well. It takes these good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Harmless and gentle, they make the bile flow freely. They do the work of a natural bile but have no cathartic or mercury in them. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name! Satisfactorily refuse anything else. 50c.

Plans New Super-Liner

Naval Officer Believes Ship Would Accommodate 10,000 Passengers

Vladimir Yourkevitch, erstwhile naval officer and designer of the hull of the Normandie, arrived at New York by the French liner Paris. M. Yourkevitch carried plans for a possible new trans-Atlantic liner of 100,000 tons of gross, 25 per cent. greater than the Queen Mary.

Looking across to the adjoining pier, where the Queen Mary lay, M. Yourkevitch pictured his new liner as capable of developing 260,000 horsepower, racing 36 knots, and accommodating 10,000 passengers.

LOUIS MEYER MAKES NEW RECORD

Well known to thousands of Western Canadians, Louis Meyer again won the gruelling 500-mile annual race at the Indianapolis Speedway and established a new record of 109.06 miles per hour. Meyer is the only man to have won the race three times. Many readers will remember his having raced in a rubber-tired tractor at the Fall Fairs throughout Western Canada several years ago. In his opinion the new speed records and absence of fatalities in the daring race are largely due to high speed tire developments. With the question of tire safety no longer a factor, Meyer says drivers' confidence and freedom from worry have greatly improved their driving ability and opportunities. Firestone Tires were used.

Chancellor Of Exchequer Waded Into Lake After Small Boy

Forgetting his grey top hat and morning coat, Neville Chamberlain, chancellor of the exchequer, waded knee-deep into St. James Park lake to rescue a four-year-old London boy. Chamberlain was walking in the park within sight of both Buckingham and St. James' palaces when he heard a woman's screams. He hurried a railing, strode through the water, grasped the lad and handed him over to his mother. Then, his striped trousers dripping water, he hurried away to nearly 11 Downing street.

JESUS MEETING THE WORLD'S NEEDS

Golden text: Jesus of Nazareth, went about doing good, Acts 10:38. Devotional reading: Acts 1:1.

Jesus Gave a Worthy Ideal. Jesus Meeting the World's Needs in our special review topic. What are the world's needs? Of course the answer is that the world's needs are many, so many that no one can possibly give them all. But they can be classified in such a way as to make our question not an altogether impossible one to answer.

Jesus gave a worthy ideal. This, certainly, is one of the world's greatest needs which Jesus meets, an ideal of life and conduct and spirit which wins the approval of every one when at his best. Others, of course, have attempted to do this, and some have done it with understanding and helplessness. Even in non-Christian days men were setting up lofty standards and pointing to ideals of life and conduct that were truly noble and good. We owe much to the Platos and the Aristotles and the hosts of men in ancient and in modern times who have held up pictures of noble living and tried to win men to emulate them. But flaws have been found in the standards that others have set up, while nothing mars the picture which Jesus drew of what we should be and do. The Sermon on the Mount convicts us and shows us the kind of lives we should try to live.

He Realized His Ideal. He not only painted a picture of what we should be and how we should live and think, but he incarnated that picture in his own life. He is the story of what Jesus was, even more than his picture of what we should be, that wins us. And it is the fact that he was the embodiment of what he taught that fills us with hope; the fact that he, in his human experience, realized the perfect will of God tells us that we can approach unto his perfect life and service. It is a most inspiring fact that Jesus lived the kind of life he did, triumphing in temptation and mastering the hard and trying and tragic tasks given him to do.

He Meets the Need of a Saviour. Whatever may be our theory of the meaning and purpose of the life and death of Jesus, we all unite in one thought that he is the Saviour of the world.

"I know a soul that is steeped in sin,
That no man's art can cure;
But I know a Name, a precious Name,
That can make that soul all pure."

FLEMING'S FOLLY

— BY —
LAWRENCE A. KEATING

CHAPTER XVII.

Her face became white and Helen uttered a gasp of dismay. She took a step back as if dumbfounded while Link, feeling his discomfort heighten, avoided her accusing eyes. He scarcely noticed Matt Benson, the renter of a small parcel of ranch land from Kilgo, mutter an exclamation behind him. Benson stared an instant, then turned and hurried off to reveal the precious morsel of news he had just chanced to overhear.

At that moment Ed Porth, Fleming's rider, approached from behind and touched his boss's arm. He turned slowly to find the man tense with suppressed excitement.

"Link," he exclaimed, "I saw that hound in the checked shirt. He just went through the back door of the bank!"

"The bank?" A frown slowly rippled his forehead. He saw Porth nod. Waco and the other stopped at that moment, and were quickly apprised of this discovery.

"What yuh gots to do?" Byrne's uneasy eyes noted Roper at the head of loungers and cardplayers emerging from the Half Moon.

"We're going in the bank of course! Funny it didn't occur to me to look there. Helen, did you hear that? You'd better move over near the hotel," he went on in a low tone. "There's no telling what might happen now."

He turned back to the men. "How long ago, Ed?"

"Just a couple of minutes. That back door ain't usually open, is it?"

"No. You skip back and watch; he might come out and lose himself again. Waco, yuh'd better go along. Drew can go with me, and Halby, you stay out front just in case. If you see the others, call 'em over, but keep this as quiet as you can; there's no need to upset the whole town."

"We're too late to keep it quiet," was the growl from Byrne. Following his eyes, Fleming saw Kilgo and Buzz coming slowly toward them, although still a hundred yards away. There was a grim look on the Box 50 owner's reddish countenance, but though his gaze encountered Link's, he made no effort to call to him.

"Scatter!" At once the men turned and hurried along the side of the required brief time to reach Link's brain, so utterly ridiculous was the assertion, of course. Growls sprang from other men behind Kilgo. Then, with cries of "Let's get 'em!" and "Bank robbery—help, help!" they surged forward.

Pieper stood fix as if transfixed. Link for the moment was indecisive; and that hesitation made any bold movement too late. For with Roper, Benson, and Howland in the lead, and an increasing crowd of townfolk summoned by the endless chain of startled cries up and down Main Street, the men swarmed about him with guns bristling, faces charged with the threat to kill.

He had no cause to shoot, so merely stood scowling. "Hold on!" Link jerked away angrily as someone clutched his arm. "I'm here for the guy that held me up and stole my steer money; he was seen comin' in this bank!"

"It's a lie! Boys, look out for this man—he's got a gang with him. Grab Drew!" Kilgo yelled. And before Mike could move he was seized.

Roper grunted. "Some more of yuh go outside. Get Halby and Byrne and make a lot of gun-throaters to town for an' surround the bank? I tell yuh, boys," he yelled as the interior of the institution became packed with breathless, excited humanity. "Link run out o' money. He knows that crazy scheme o' his—Fleming's Folly—is g'one bust!"

"What does he want to pull this job for?" he cried again. "Till betcha he was going to leave town. Store. Ain't Jackpot Mell lookin' for him?"

Just then the tall, angular figure of the gambler made his way to the fore. "Yuh bet I'm after him," Mell growled nastily, his cold agate eyes travelling up and down Fleming's frame. "And right now I've got him, too!"

"Hold on, Jackpot—yuh can't pull a shootin' here!"

"Anyhow, we don't want him shot!" bawled someone deep in the milling throng. "Let's lynch the damned bank robber. Done all he could to bust this country an' victimize us ranchers, ain't he?"

Link strove to get free. But his hands were gripped, and ready hands gripped his arms, holding them behind him. Struggle as he might he was a prisoner, white-faced and tense, facing the crowd of hostile townfolk and ranchers whose vengeance was swiftly being aroused by the cupidity of Kilgo and Mell.

"Yuh bet," he yelled. "I tell you I was held up. Ed Porth saw the guy come in here—"

"Outside!" cried someone. "Let's have a necktie party!"

The proposal struck a responsive chord. "That's it—let's hang him!"

"He can't rob our bank an' get away with it!"

"That holdup's all talk. It's a lie. Link meant to stick up Otto and then make a getaway."

"Yeah—and leave the girl flat. Why, the Hamilton spread is practically busted right now!"

Amazement flooded over the Star Loop owner's face—sheer disbelief that such viciousness could be found to life in the hearts and brains of these folk. Always friendly to him, they had suddenly sparked to hate—and why? How was it possible?

He knew, of course; it was plain. The unceasing, crafty work of months by Roper and Mell. The hitherto undisputed leadership of Kilgo was now reaping its harvest. To have followed irrigation when he did not believe in it was a serious enough crime; but actually to have won Roper's intended bride away from him—that was forever unforgivable.

Joisting, bawling, milling, crying out epithets and insults, the throng crashed and showed its way out of the bank. Otto Pieper stood watch as a man struck dumb. Then he followed, automatically, blinking, clearing his throat, tugging helplessly at his watch chain as he saw the surging mob burst through his front door and into the street. Otto could not absorb all this. He was dumbfounded.

"Where'll we hang him, boys?"

"How about Iron Spring?"

"Now," snarled a red-bearded man, "that's too far. Why not use that pole in front of the jail?"

This seized the fancy of the mob. Cries of approval greeted the suggestion, and everyone moved down the street. In the crush of sweaty, profane and vengeful humanity Fleming was mauled and shoved, cursed and kicked along with the irresistible tide. His prettified face and his ears were for the threats of rage on all sides. There was no reason here, but only blind frenzy—the desire of the locals to protect themselves against something they did not understand but had been educated to fear.

That something was progress. The progress of irrigation. By his stealthy work, his astuteness and cleverness dating from the day before the ranchers' meeting last Fall, Roper Kilgo had laid this groundwork. Now he was to reap his harvest, using Rawhide citizens to wreak vengeance.

The czar of Boone County was to have his unquestioned sway endorsed!

Link realized the error of drawing his gun there in the bank. He had done it to spur Otto, to prevent precious minutes wasted. But discovery of the tableau had given Kilgo his chance—and he did not miss it. There was no cry, not even that of "Fire!" that would rock these people into so terrific a rage as the yell of "Bank Robbery!" And Roper knew it. It would soon be noon.

Link caught a glimpse of the Hamilton's drawn face at the fringe of the throng. She cried out something to Roper but was ignored. Waco, Byrne and Drew had been roped by eager hands to the hitch-rail before the bank; glancing back he spied them, saw their futile struggles to release themselves. His other riders, he thought, were prisoners too.

Link's heart sank. The din about his ears rose to a crescendo of hate. "Try to wreck the hull county!" bawled someone.

"Another man flung in his teeth. "Well, I ain't surprised!"

Fleming tried to answer, but at that instant his captors gave a terrific jerk. He all but fell and was dragged to the tall cedar pole that stood before the adobe jail. Someone was climbing it to string a rope through the iron ring at the top. It was meant for a flagpole, to be used on holidays. Now it was to be the means of a lynching, the anger of a mob gone mad with insensate hysteria.

Suits For Well-Dressed Men Will Be Poured Over 'em

The era of well-dressed men—with suits poured to order—was proclaimed at the 29th annual convention of the International Association of Garment Manufacturers at Chicago.

Harry Simons, New York fashion expert, announced the imminence of the tailored millennium. "A cellulose substance is being perfected which will enable men's suits to be tailored merely by pouring the substance over a form on the body," he said.

There will be no need for further trappings and alterations. After the substance is poured, it will be allowed to cool so that it will reveal a pattern that fits the man's body."

With the "poured suit" period, Mr. Simons predicted the return of the nineteenth-century "dandy," with clothes of lemon yellow, light red, blue and rose mixtures.

Interlude With Death

British Medical Men Are Interested

In Strange Case recently heard the astounding story of Mary Devonport's seven-minute interlude of "death" in a dental chair, how she lost 24 teeth and how she went back to work in a steel factory.

"The case poses a question for those who believe the soul leaves the body on the instant of death," remarked Dr. Alfred A. Masser of Sheffield. He described the case for the British Medical Journal.

"She remembers nothing about her strange experience," the doctor asserted. "There were no dreams under the chloroform. Her brain registered no reaction to what death is like, because the brain cells still were under the effect of the anesthetic during the seven minutes of lifelessness."

Dr. Masser reported the 20-year-old girl's heart stopped beating shortly after chloroform had been administered preliminarily to having her teeth extracted by a dentist.

"The patient went suddenly white, breathing stopped and the pupils dilated widely. The pulse and heart sounds could not be detected."

"The head was immediately lowered, artificial respiration started, and strychnine was given hypodermically. While this was being carried on, I massaged her through the diaphragm from beneath the costal margin. No response of any sort occurred, so I decided to try an intra-cardiac injection of 'coral' plunging a long needle into the left ventricle about the level of the fourth space, and slowly injected the 'coral'."

"Immediately after this, the massage through the diaphragm was continued, and in about one minute I could see a faint flicker of pulsation in the external jugular vein of the neck."

"After another 10 minutes of artificial respiration the breathing recommenced and the pulse at the wrist gradually returned."

"Her condition gradually improved so much that I decided to continue the anesthetic with an open ether, and the dentist proceeded to remove about 24 teeth."

The report added the girl made an uneventful recovery. She went back to work two days later.

Suits For Well-Dressed Men Will Be Poured Over 'em

The era of well-dressed men—with suits poured to order—was proclaimed at the 29th annual convention of the International Association of Garment Manufacturers at Chicago.

Harry Simons, New York fashion expert, announced the imminence of the tailored millennium. "A cellulose substance is being perfected which will enable men's suits to be tailored merely by pouring the substance over a form on the body," he said.

There will be no need for further trappings and alterations. After the substance is poured, it will be allowed to cool so that it will reveal a pattern that fits the man's body."

With the "poured suit" period, Mr. Simons predicted the return of the nineteenth-century "dandy," with clothes of lemon yellow, light red, blue and rose mixtures.

Caller: "Is Mrs. Paterson-Pritchard at home?"

Maid: "She's at home all right, but she ain't in a fit state to see anybody. Me an' er' as just bin 'aving words."

Women are the most successful peddlers. Men won't buy from another man just to get rid of him.

If some men were to lose their self-conceit there wouldn't be much left.

Carried Jewish Synagogue

A Jewish synagogue was carried across the ocean on a British ship for the first time in history on the maiden voyage of the new sea queen, the Queen Mary, according to Jewish passengers aboard the Cunard-White Star liner. Religious services were held throughout the initial voyage, with most of the estimated 500 Jews aboard in attendance.

"He's a man of few words, isn't he?"

"Yes—so he was telling me all this morning."

Beech, birch, maple, sap, and regum are reported as being used in largest quantities for handles of tea kettles and coffee pots.

Little Helps For This Week

For I am persuaded that neither death nor life, nor angels, nor principalities, nor powers, nor things present or things to come, nor height nor depth, nor any other creature shall be able to separate us from the love of God which is in Christ Jesus our Lord. Romans 8: 35-39.

I know not what the future hath, Of marvel or surprise, Assured alone that life and death His Mercy underlies.

I know not where His islands lift Their fringed palms in air, I only know we cannot drift Beyond His love and care.

Be of good faith, fear not those things ye may be made to suffer, either outwardly or inwardly, but trust the Lord over all and your life will spring, and grow, and refresh you, and you will learn obedience and faithfulness to your sufferings. The Lord will teach you the very mystery of faith and obedience, the wisdom, power and goodness of the Lord will order everything for you.

Non-Treaty Indians In West To Be Placed On Reserve

Driven by a shortage of food to give up the freedom they have guarded jealously since the white man first invaded their hunting grounds, non-treaty Chippewa Indians of the Rocky Mountain House, Alta., district have at last surrendered.

They asked the Dominion government to form a reserve and make the treaty Indians and wards of the king. The department of Indian affairs has started formation of a new reserve, consisting of two townships of land 32 miles northwest of Rocky Mountain House.

Crees from the Cypress Hills reserve, south of Maple Creek, Sask., will join the Chippewas on the new reserve, expected to be opened before winter.

Boat To Study Northern Conditions Being Built In Russia

Russia is preparing to construct a ship which will make a voyage like that undertaken by Nansen in the Fram more than 40 years ago. It is for studying Arctic conditions. Unlike the Fram, which sailed to the New Siberian Islands before it was allowed to become frozen in, the ship will be towed on the first part of its voyage by a Russian ice-breaker, then allowed to drift, frozen in, through the Arctic Ocean for four years. The Fram was 1,000 tons. The new vessel will be 4,000 tons and will carry an airplane.
